WAR AMONG OSBORN HEIRS THE DISPOSITION OF MANY MIL-

LIUNS IN DISPUTE. Coercion and Fraud Urged Against John W.
Sterling, Executor or the Late Howell On-horn's Mether-Her Immense Entate Likely to He Tied Up in the Courts for Years.

An action has been pending for some time in the Supreme Court through the service of papers, but without the necessity of filing them, in which the will of Miriam A. Osborn, mother of the late Howell Osborn, is attacked, and is alleged to be the result of the coercion and fraud of her counsel and executor, John W. Sterling. It is alleged that besides an immense amount of realty, which is directly concerned in the suit, Mrs. Osbora left upward of $5,000,-000 in securities. The will is full of trust provisions, and an effort is made to turn over a large part of the estate as remainders of trust estates to the Memorial Home Association, which is to get the bequests when it is incor-

The suit is brought by Loils O. Henriques and Mary A. Mason, sisters of Mrs. Osborn. who, with Henrietta Olive Trowbridge, a child of an only brother of Mrs. Osborn, are declared to be her only heirs. It is asked that partition be made, as if no will were left, of twelve pieces of property, most of which are between Fiftyfirst and Sixty-fourth streets and Sixth and Madison avenues, and of two pieces on Spruce

Mrs. Osborn died in 1891, leaving a will which caused comment because of the provis-ions concerning her only child, Howell. She left him the income of two funds of $300,000 and $100,000 respectively, providing he did not contest her will, and gave him the right to name such of his children as should receive the principal, but she provided that the children must be by a wife who had never "acted, sung, or danced professionally, or otherwise performed for hire on a dramatic stage or other place of public amusement or entertainment." This provise is supposed to refer to Fay Templeton, whom Howell Osborn is said to have married. If he should not leave such issue, the fund was to go to the Memorial Home Association. Mrs. Osborn's niece, Henrieta Olive Trowbridge, was to get the income of $250,000. with remainder to her issue, and if she left no issue the fund was to go to the Home Associa-tion. Her sister, Mary A. Mason, gets the in-come of $50,000, as does also her sister, Leila O. Henriques. The principal of Mrs. Hen-riques's fundigoes on her death to her daughter, Leila Henriques, whose father was assaulted by "Biff" Ethson. Mrs. Osborn's friead, Min-nie Garson, is to receive the income of $50,-000.

OOO.

The rest of Mrs. Osborn's fortune was to go to her son Howell for life and then to the Memorial Home Association. She provides that if any legatee attacks the will all the expenses of such proceeding are to be taken from the bequests of such proceeding are to be taken from the bequests of such person. She names John W. Sterling and the Central Trust Company of New York executors and trustees. They are to give uo security and Sterling is empowered to name another executor and trustee, also without security.

New York executors and trustees. They are to give no security and Sterling is empowered to name another executor and trustee, also without security.

Howell Osborn died in February, 1895, leaving a will in which he permitted Fay Templeton to take cifects of his to the amount of $100,000, and gives the bulk of his estate to his cousin, Henrietta Olive Trowbridge. The inventory stated that he only left $10,000. If Fay Templeton was not able to realize on her bequest the may get a chance if a contention of Minnie Garson is good. The wills of Mrs. Osborn and of Howell were both admitted to probate without a contest, and a march was stolen on most chances of contest by the executors of Howell's will starting an action under the new law to have that will declared valid. The plaintiffs in this present suit were made parties to that one. Judgment was obtained last June declaring Howell's will valid.

In the present action Minnie Garson, who gets the legacy from Mrz. Osborn as her "triend," makes answer that, as Howell lived after his Imother, if his mother left no will all her property would have descended to Howell and would be disposed of under his will, so the plaintiffs have no standing in court.

Counsel for Minnie Garson moved that Vanderpoel, Cuming & Goodwin, who brought the present action, be compelled to serve a reply to the statements in the answer of Minnie Garson in bar of the suit, and Justice Russell of the Subreme Court yesterday directed that a reply be served within twenty days, and if not so served that the complaint be dismissed as to Minnie Garson. If the reply is not served the action will still run against all the other parties to it. If the sisters of Mrs. Osborn fall in their case they will lose quite a sum from their legacies under the provisions of the will.

KILLED BY HIS WHEEL BREAKING. Bicyclist Evans Made the Wheel Whose Collapse Caused His Patal Fall. Edward Evans, the bicycle repairer and maker of 796 Eighth avenue, who was killed while wheeling early yesterday morning, was riding a cycle of his own roake when he met his death. Evans was an enthusiastic member of the Century Wheelmen, whose headquar ters are on Seventy-first street, just west of day night he set out on his wheel with John ling of 519 West Fiftleth street to go to the ciubhouse. Schilling was a new member and Evans was going to introduce him.

In Evans's shop there were perhaps forty wheels of all kinds. He looked them over and wheels of all kinds. He looked them over and chose one which he himself had made. He had ridden it before and liked it. Together the two bicyclists wheeled up to the club, where they remained until nearly midnight. The night being line, they decided to take a spin up the Boulevard after leaving the club. They rode all the way to Harlem, and then turned back. At Eighty-sixth street they started to cross the street-ear tracks. Schilling, who was a little in the lead, joiled over the tracks in safety.

was a little in the lead, joiled over the tracks in safety.
When Evans's wheel struck the track there was a sharp crack which sounded to Schilling almost like a pistol shot. The froat fork of the repairer's wheel had snapped just above where the two tines branched out. The rider pitched forward head first. His skull struck the iron rail of the car track and was crushed in. Schilling dismounted immediately, and ran to Evans's aid. Evans was unconscious, and he died before the arrival of an ambalance, which was summoned from Roesevelt Hospital. The tubing which broke is supposed to have been faultily cast. Evans did not make this himself. He purchased the different parts of the machine and put them together. The break which caused the accident is said by bicycle riders to be not uncommon.

LIVED WITH HIS NECK BROKEN. Frogun Did Not Die Until Six Weeks After

Morris Grogan died yesterday in the Long Island College Hospital in Brooklyn. That he is dead is not remarkable, because his neck was broken; the wonder is that he did not die nearly six weeks ago, within a few hours of the time when he received his mortal hurt. Grogan was 20 years old and lived at 370 Hicks street. On Aug. 17 he was swimming in the public bath at the foot of Baltic street, and in diving struck his head on the bottom of the bath pool and was taken out unconscious. He was removed at once to the hospital. There the doctors found that the third and fourth bones of the spine were fractured and partly dislocated. The injury caused a pressure on the spinal cord which completely paralyzed Grogan from his throat down and threatened to end his life at any moment.

It was necessary to handle Grogan with great care to avoid cutting through the spinal marcare to avoid cutting through the spinal marrow by incautiously moving the broken bones, and yet it was also necessary to bring the bones into place. Grogan was stretched out on his back upon a cot, and one lot of surgeons took him by the head and another lot by the heels and pulled at him until the bones of his neck were in place again. He soon recovered consciousness and his speech, and although he could not move a muscle of his arms, leers or body nor even feel that he had these members, he was much interested in all that was done to save his life. Bandages were next put about his chin, neck and the back of his head in such a manner as not to interfere with his breathing, swallowing or talking, and yet so as to keep the head in place, and then the ends of these wrappings were carried forward to the edge of the cot, where they hung over and had a weight of five or six pounds attached to keep a pull upon them. There was no danger of Grogan moving his body, so he was not strapped to the bed, but another set of bandages were put on his legs and a weight was hung to them.

Thus equipped, Grogan lived for nearly six weeks, and at least had comfort if not enjoyment. He could talk and he could swallow, His diet was mostly milk and entirely liquid, and he needed a good deal of attention. Without such treatment and care as he received he would surely have died within a few hours.
During all the long fight Grogan secens never to have complained. He did not show any signs of improvement. The paralysis remained and he gradually failed in strength. He was conscious up to the last day of his life. About midnight on Monday it became cortain that he would die, and his life ended at 1:30 A. M. yesterday. row by incautiously moving the broken bones, ALDERMEN ENJOINED .- Adv.

Tin Pan Attack On the King-bridge Franchise Which it Is Proposed to Sell.

The Mayor and the Aldermen were served yesterday with a temporary injunction restraining them from faking any action on the Kingsbridge street railroad franchise, which it is proposed to sell at auction under the law. The injunction was granted by Justice Lawrence of the Supreme Court at the instance of Leopold Gustal of 80 Park place, who acted as a stalking horse for one of the yellow journals. The order is returnable this morning and the injunetion will probably be vacated.

One of the men enjoined is District Attorney Olcott, who resigned from the Board of Aldermen last December. In spite of the fact that he hasn't been an Alderman for nearly ten months he is included in the list of those who are forbidden to vote on the franchise. The serving of the injunction was an imposing serving of the injunction was an imposing spectacle. Squads of yellow journalists were drawn up in line in the corridor of the Cay Hall, and as each Alderman passed along on his way to the meeting room upstairs a copy of the injunction was thrust into his hand. When the meeting was called to order the papers in the case were turned over to the Law Committee with instructions to have the Chairman confer with Corporation Counsel Scott. Then Alderman Ware offered a resolution that a public hearing be given on the franchise question next Monday so that citizens in general and labor orators in particular could have a chance to state their views.

"But we can't take the matter up now," said President Jeroloman with awe in his voice. "We have been enjoined by the Supreme Court."

"Not being a lawyer and knowing nothing

"We have been enjoined by the Supreme Court."

Not being a lawyer and knowing nothing about the law, I agree with you," said Alderman Oakley, whereupon the other members of the board snickered.

"I admire Alderman Ware's courage in introducing this resolution," said Alderman Marshall. "I don't know waether he is sincere or not, but I do know that his resolution is a fine piece of political buncombe."

"Bunco, did you say!" asked Alderman Ware excitedly.

"Bunco, did you say!" asked Alderman Ware excitedly,
"No, I said buncombe," retorted Alderman Marshall, and the resolution was tabled.
The injunction is based on the clause in the new charter forbidding the Municipal Assembly which will be elected next month from granting a franchise in perpetuity. The courts have already decided in a Staten Island case that this prohibition does not apply to local legislatures now in existence.

It Is Proposed to Ring It at 9 o'Clock and Keep Children Off the Streets After That Hour. ton is the one proposing the ringing of the curfew bell and the enactment of a regulation requiring all children under 15 years of age to keep off the streets after 9 o'clock in the summer and 8 o'clock in the winter. The Rev. J. H. Bradford, Secretary of the Boys' and Girls' National Home and Employment Association, who lives here, has presented the matter to the District Commissioners. They informed him to-day that they had carefully considered it and thought it might be a good thing, it and thought it might be a good thing, but at present were unprepared to say how far they would recommend legislation on this line. Mr. Bradford proposes to have an ordinance or police regulation like that in operation at Omaha, Kanasa City, Lincoln, and elsewhere. It provides that children who are on the street after the prescribed hour must be accompanied by or have been sent on some errand by a parent or guardian. Any others can be arrested by the police and fined $5 for each offence, and any parent permitting his children to run about at night is also to b fined $5 for each offence.

The Home and Employment Association will have its eighth annual convention in Indianapolis in December, and the subject will be fully considered there. The number of children who run at large in Washington after nightfall is very noticeable to strangers. Many of them are picked up by the police and held for their parents.

Says He Stole Them, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene H. Dukehart of Dayton, O., came East to spend the summer near the senside. They went to board at 57 West Seventeenth street. Alva Van Dusen was the man of the house. On July 31 they made preparations to pay a visit to Rockaway Beach. Mrs. Dukehart put her jewelry, valued at $1,000, in a wooden box, and her husband banded it over to Van Eusen. According to Mr. Dukehart's story he said to Van Dusen: "Put this box away; they are my wife's jew-

According to the story told by Van Dusen, Mr. Dukeh at only said: "Put this box away."
Then, Van Dusen says, understanding that the box contained rubbish, he threw it into the ash barrel. He was convicted in the General Sessions yesterday of stealing the jewels. The jury recommended him to mercy.

WANT A MANDAMUS FOR COLLIS Another Move in the Fight of the Rival Rail-

The Forty-second Street, Manhattanville and St. Nicholas Avenue Railroad Company, which is controlled by the Third Avenue Railroad Company, moved before Justice Russeil of the Supreme Court yesterday for a mandamus to Supreme Court yesterday for a mandamus to compel Commissioner of Public Works Collis to issue a permit to excavate Amsterdam average for the purpose of changing the rainto d's motive power to underground electricity. The motion was opposed by Corporation Counsel Scott and by counsel for some property owners. The motion is another move in the old fight between the Metropolitan Street Railway and its rival, the Third Avenue Company. Justice Russell reserved decision.

CAUGHT THE THIEVES AT WORK They Simmed the Boor in the Cook's Face and Got Away with the Silver.

ORANGE, Sept. 28 .- When the cook in T. Newon Foster's residence, on Centre street, near Harrison, East Orange, went downstairs this morning, she found the door leading from the hall to the kitchen partly closed. As she put her hand against it to nush it open some one on the other side slammed it in her face. She screamed and ran up stairs, where her husband, who is employed as gardener, was sleeping, and aroused him. He found that thieves had left the back door open when they bad a basty re-treat, but had taken about $350 worth of sliver table ware from the butler's pautry. Entrance was effected through a window.

Docks Deemed Necessary by the Board Appointed in August to Report on the Navy's Need-Three Floating Docks and Perhaps

Five-Urgency in Five Cases Pointed Out. WASHINGTON, Sept. 28 .- Acting Secretary Roosevelt of the Navy Department received to day the report of the board of officers appointed in August to ascertain how many new naval dry docks were needed and where they should be located. The members of the board are Commodore F. M. Bunce, Commander F. E. Chadwick, Assistant Naval Constructor Dashlell, and Civil Engineer Charles W. Parks.

Soon after the board was appointed Con structor Dashiell was sent abroad to gather information about the feasibility and practicability of floating dry docks, and his report indersed that type of basin so highly that the board has recommended that three floating docks be con structed, coupling the recommendation with a auggestion that Pensacola and Galveston offer additional sites for docks of that character. LUEIGERT EXPERT TESTIFIES. Contradiction of the Prosecution's Case as to the Vat Beiling.

CHICAGO, Sept. 28 .- The defence in the Luctgert wife murder case began to present its expert testimony to-day. Dr. Bernard L. Reise. whose reputation is quite as undisputed as that of any of the State's experts, was on the witness stand all the morning and part of the after noon. As was expected, Dr. Reise's testimony, based on his experiments with the boiling of human bodies in the same vat said to have been used by Luetgert in killing his wife, was contrary to the theory of the prosecution in all material details. In the first place, he declared it was impossible to heat the potash so lution to the boiling point in the vat. He tried repeatedly and failed. Continuing with a minute recital of the experiments, Dr. Reise sald minute recital of the experiments, Dr. Reise sald there were no sesamoid bones left in the vat after the process was finished. The experts for the State identified several bones in the vat as human sesamoids. Dr. Reise further sought to deny the truth of the State's hypothesis by tentiving that the solution had absolutely no effect on artificial teeth; that all the pieces of the skull remained in shape, and that parts of the spinal column, forearm, and heel were also found in the bottom of the vat.

He Is Treasurer of the Borough of Wallingford, Conn. - Family Beaerted.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 28.-Willis Trask, treasurer of the borough of Wallingford and teller of the First National bank of that place, is missing, and he is not expected to return. It was learned this evening that Trask's accounts with the borough are in a complicated state and it is alleged that there is a shortage of several thousand dollars. The bank officials say that his accounts with that institution are are all right, but an official of the bank also told THE SUS reporter to-night that he did not expect Trask back.

Trask left Wallingford ten days ago, ostensibly for his annual two weeks' vacation. The day he lef the bank his wife gave birth to a boy. He did not tell his wife that he was lear ing, and when two or three days had passed and he was still absent, she worried herself into an attack of fever, and is now in a critical con-dition. It is also learned that Trock left her pennilese, and she and her two children are now being provided with the necessaries of life and medical attendance by her friends. The borough authorities for the last two days have been examining Track's accounts at the request of his bondsman, Lyman Monroe. The burgesses, who with Town Clerk O. T. Martin are conducting the investigation, refused to confirm or deny the rumor that Trask was short in his accounts, but they all say that they do not expect Trask back, one of the burgesses adding, "except he will come back in custody,"

Trask was born in Wallingford, and married a very estimable young woman, Miss May Thompson, a daughter of Mr. Gilbert F. Thompson, one of the most substantial citizens of the borough. He always bore an excellent character.

If so, you can get some most attractive suitings now at less than half of what they would cost if imported now; for the new tariff adds ever-somuch per cent.; and these are far below even last year's prices.

At $18 are suits in cheviot serge, canvas cloth, and Oxford mixtures, jacket and skirt lined throughout with plain or checked taffeta; fly-front jackets, correct hanging skirts, and the best tailor finish.

Boucle serge suits, silk lined; widewale cheviots at $22.50; and others at a higher price, with added elegance in tailoring and trimming.

At $36 there is a very handsome suit of cheviot serge, with Russian blouse waist, the waist and the skirt handsomely braided in Parisian style, and lined throughout with taffeta silk.

And these are only a good beginning.

A SILK SHIRT WAIST has almost as many uses for a woman as the proverbial hairpin. It is just what every woman needs with her tailor-made suit, to complete her early fall outfit. With it, she is equipped for shopping, for an outing trip, or for evening wear-for silk waists come in black or colors, light or dark, and in such variety as to harmonize with costumes of any material or color. Black taffeta waists are here in seven styles, from $3.50 to $7.50; and black satin in four styles, from $4.50 to $7.

The beautiful plaids are universal favorites for waists. Nearly all have white laundered collars, and some have Windsor ties to match the silk. Here are a few of the styles:

Fine, heavy taffeta, in shirt-waist style, with loose plaits, $10. Heavy taffeta, blouse front, yoke back, $7.50. Yoke back and front, with plaits, four colorings, $5.75. Plain shirt-waist front, with yoke over shoulders, $7.50.

In Roman stripes we show two styles, at $4.75 and $6.75; and in checks of many new colorings, three styles, at $6.25 to $7.50.

AN EFFECTIVE NECK-PIECE is almost as good as an additional dress. In fact, it makes a new costume of any dress with which it is worn.

WANAMAKER HISTORY CLUB

you can only afford one reference work, buy Ridpath's History of the World. If you possess Dictionaries and Encyclopedias, still buy Ridpath's History of the World. It is the most valuable of all books of reference. The encyclopedists may roll their eyes in horror at this statement, but Ridpath gives every fact of history worth remembering, and tells it in a way that Helps You to Remember It.

The great events of the past are closely related through cause and effect with each other and with the Present. No man can understand the Present who doesn't know the Past. Does HE KNOW the past who reads in his encyclopedia that the French Revolution, for example, began in 1789 and ended in 1795 or 1799 or 1804, with a list of events loosely tied to various intermediate dates? Assuming that he can remember any part of it while he is closing his book! A few moments with Ridpath's History of the World, on the other hand, brings clearly into view the causes and effects, as well as the events of the Revolution, and photographs them indelibly on the mind.

Exhaustive indexes bring every important name and event since history began within immediate finding.

John Clark Ridpath, who is the greatest living American Historian, spent a lifetime in preparing this great work. The publishers invested over a quarter of a million dollars in illustrating it and getting it ready to print.

Every nation, ancient, medieval and modern, from the beginning of civilization o 1897, is adequately treated, not in a dry catalogue of dates, but in vivid, stirring sentences that bring back the past as a living, moving reality. Equal space is devoted to description of the beginning and development of mankind—the makers of events distinguished from the facts of history. In Ridpath's History Is Absolutely Unique.

The eight imperial volumes contain in round figures 6,500 double column pages, the equivalent of about 30 ordinary octavo volumes of 500 pages each. Nearly 4,000 engravings, reproductions, maps, chronological and race charts and diagrams, many of them in colors, illustrate the text and constitute the most extensive art gallery of history ever brought together.

The type is large and well spaced, the printing even and clear, the paper clean and super-calendered, and the bindings handsome and substantial.

The set has always been sold at prices running from $48.00 to $175.00, according to binding. Over 50,000 sets have been sold at these prices. They could not be sold for less by ordinary methods—but we have taken AN ENTIRE EDITION, and are forming

Mrs. Cookingham in her complaint states that soon her husband began to show marked attention to Miss Paimater, and to take her with him when he went bieyele rainig. As Mrs. Cookingham does not ride a bieyele, she had to stay at home. Mr. Cookingham and Miss Palmater attended church fairs together, and even rode to this city and went to the theatre. Finally, Mrs. Cookingham says, Miss Palmater refused to speak to her in her own house. Then Mrs. Cookingham went away and through her attorney commenced an action for separation, which will be tried before Judge Barnard at Special Term on next Saturday. Mrs. Cookingham in her complaint states
